T.R. Shannon joined the San Jose California Highway Patrol in July 1966, and transferred to the San Andreas Area CHP office two years later, where he'd stay for the next twenty-one years. During that time, he drove about 750,000 miles on state highways and county roads, patrolling the most varied climate and terrain in California. Through hot summers, freezing winters, in the mountains, and in the grasslands, he thought fast, navigated ethical quandaries, and believed in and always strived to enforce the law without fear or favor. In this collection of 128 short stories, he looks back at high-speed pursuits, heart-breaking traffic accidents, physical confrontations, unsolved murders, and other events—from the routine to the unbelievable. Some of the people he arrested—and some of the people he saw die—he shed no tears for, but others—like the first person he arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol, earned his sympathy. An officer's job involves much more than writing tickets, investigating sometimes minor—but too often tragic—traffic accidents, and helping disabled motorists—although all those things are critical parts of the job highlighted in Cow County Chip.

The California Highway Patrol has its roots in the early 1920s motorcycle traffic cops employed by counties and cities. The CHP became a separate state entity in 1929 and has grown from the early traffic enforcement role to that of one of the premier law enforcement agencies in the United States. Their responsibilities range from patrolling the freeways and county roads of California to providing security for the state capital and other state buildings to protecting the governor and visiting dignitaries from around the world. The CHP has marshaled its forces to restore and maintain peace in times of war, civil unrest, or natural disasters.

This book gives an historical overview of all the fifty State Police and Highway Patrol organisations, together with the uniform and badge descriptions and state law enforcement museums where they exist. Includes 218 black & white, 226 coloured illustrations and 81 colour paintings of uniforms and badges.

This guide is designed to assist fiscal policy team members in assessing current standards and practices of school transportation systems in relation to the total school program. Team members should read the guide independently to determine their own familiarity with requirements essential to school transportation operation. An introductory statement, school transportation goal, and one or more standards that serve as reference points against which current practices can be assessed are provided in each of eight sections: (1) organization and administration; (2) financial management; (3) facilities management; (4) equipment management; (5) human resources management; (6) operations; (7) pupil management; and (8) public relations. Results to questions answered independently by team members should be used as a basis for discussion and help facilitate improving the district's school transportation program. (EJS)

Intended for the use of sheriffs' departments, this manual presents methods of addressing implementation issues related to two crucial resource allocation topics: (1) the total number of police officers required to provide an acceptable level of traffic services, and (2) how a specified total number of officers should be allocated by geographic regions or time periods to produce the maximum agency productivity. The guidelines are intended for use as a reference document for both first-time and experienced users of the accompanying procedure manual. The procedures rely on both historical data and user-supplied performance objectives. Individual sections provide an overview of the methodology used in determining staffing levels and allocations and explain general implementation strategies, issues related to data definition and collection, and the recommended data collection and implementation procedure. Appendixes list data and performance information required for each of the nine worksheets in the accompanying manual, a glossary of terms and notation used in the manual, a detailed example, and derivations of all the important formulas.
